Croup and Cold Troubles Are Best Treated Externally

COLDS are simply inflammation or congestion of the mucous membrane, or lining of the respiratory organs — air passages and lungs. They should be treated just as surface inflammations, such as burns or bruises, are treated—that is, the medication should be applied directly to the inflamed parts. But medication cannot be applied directly to the air passages and lungs except in the form of vapors that can be inhaled, and until the discovery of Vick's VapoRub, there was no efficient, economical method of supplying these vapors.

VICK'S VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, L. Richardson, who found a way to combine the standard, time-tested remedies—Menthol, Camphor, Turpentine, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Juniper, etc.—in salve form, so that when Vicks is applied to the body, these ingredients are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors, inhaled with each breath all night long, carry the medication direct to the affected parts. At the same time, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, aiding the vapors inhaled to relieve the congestion.

Spasmodic Croup and Children's Colds

Vicks is particularly recommended to mothers with small children. It is externally applied and, therefore, can be used often and freely with perfect safety. Let the children run out-doors, even in winter, and get their needed fresh air and exercise, and simply apply a little Vicks over the throat and chest at the first sign of a cold, covering with a hot flannel cloth. For spasmodic croup, rub Vicks freely over the throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved. One application is commonly sufficient, and an application at bed time usually prevents a night attack.

Deep Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Coughs

For inflammation of the respiratory organs where there is tightness or soreness, Vicks should be rubbed well over the throat and chest until the skin is red; then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. The bed clothing should be arranged in the form of a funnel, so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

In severe cases, hot, wet cloths should first be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin before applying Vicks.

If the cough is annoying, small portions of Vicks, the size of a pea, can be swallowed every few hours.

Head Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever

For these troubles, Vicks can be melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled, or a little applied up the nostrils and snuffed back into the air passages. There is no "cure" for Asthma and Hay Fever—Vicks gives temporary relief in some cases.

Used as a Liniment, Salve, Poulter or Plaster

In addition to its vaporizing qualities, Vicks has also been found to be an excellent anti-inflammatory application. It makes a cooling, soothing dressing for such troubles as Bites, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Frost Bite, Headache, Itchings, Poison Oak, Soreness, Sprains, Sunburn, etc.

OUR AESTHETIC POLES.

The deep affection of the aldermen for the corporations as shown by the action last night would bring tears to the eyes of Nick Lenine. It was as heart-breaking as "East Lynne," or Little Eva's death in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." We are going to keep the poles, not so many, but enough so that all the dead memories that cluster around them will not fade entirely. It would be too sudden a shock to have them removed all at once. Also, after all, one concludes that from the viewpoint of the owners they are really aesthetic and a part of the general color and ornamental scheme of all well-managed cities. Prizes will now be offered for the best method of doling them up. We suggest the council have them painted yellow.

TWO-AND-A-HALF PERCENT ET AL.

The question of states' rights which has been settled several times by the supreme court of the United States, and in 1865 was shot to pieces in the civil war, enters as the largest factor in the decision of Federal Judge Gelger, who has upheld the validity and constitutionality of the Mulberger law permitting the manufacture and sale of beer of 2½ percent alcoholic content.

The supreme court has already ruled in the New York cases that congress had the right to define the alcoholic content and fix the limit of alcohol in liquors. Also the question of supercedure of the federal constitutional amendment is carried in the amendment itself. To uphold Judge Gelger would be to declare the amendment itself unconstitutional and hence ineffective.

This latter is exactly the contention in the Rhode Island cases before the supreme court. The plaintiff claims that the amendment is unconstitutional, attacking it from the viewpoint that it is not an amendment in fact, as defined in Article 5 of the constitution. These are all very interesting, but so far the supreme court has upheld the Volstead act, and the constitutional amendment on the points at issue although the broad questions now raised have not been decided. The judge's decision may permit the passing of a few schooners of 2½ over the bars of the saloons still in existence, but when the supreme court is through with the judge, the bung starter will again take its place with the relics of a passed age.

STEEL TRUST DECISION.

With the action of the supreme court of the United States yesterday, in refusing to dissolve the United States Steel company as a trust, the Sherman anti-trust law received another blow. It has on many occasions been held as ambiguous and inapplicable, but this time seems to fit in no way the contention of the government attorneys who asked for the dissolution of the steel trust.

This suit was brought in 1911 and has been in the courts since. One of the points to be noted is that the decision of the supreme court comes without prejudice, and in the event that the government should at any time find that the Sherman law is being violated, the suit may be reopened.

Size alone, holds the court, is not necessarily evidence of the failure of the trust to comply with the law. And as to evidence of the trust stifling competition, none was found since 1911. The court expressed the opinion that the dissolution of the corporation would be detrimental to the public interest.

It is too early to say what the effect will be on the cases against other so-called trusts, but the assistant attorney general intimates that this decision will probably halt other prosecutions.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES OPPOSE ROAD OPENING.

It is claimed in a statement apparently based on good authority, that the mail order houses are making an effort to combat the movement to have all Wisconsin counties keep roads open during the winter. The mail order house thrives best when roads to village and city are closed, and the only means of communication with the outside world for the farmer is the rural mail carrier who must of needs make his rounds.

Rural merchants are deeply interested here. They will be found with the owners of motor trucks and others needing the roads to carry on business, back of a concerted movement to be made in the legislature at its next session. There is no reason why any community should be inaccessible during four or five months in the year. It savors too much of the colonial period of the nation.

Exports to Canada for 1919 fell off to a remarkable extent. The decrease was largely in the items of corn, steel, coal, fuel oil and raw cotton. With every other nation we had an increase. There seems to be no good reason for this condition other than that much of the material, both raw and manufactured, going to Canada in 1918 was re-shipped to Europe, while that did not appear to be the case in 1919.

Why is it that all these male vamps talk about the "ennobling love" that has come into their lives? The wives who are left at home to care for the babies are apt to be peevish and irritable even then.

There are 600 vacancies in the cadetships at West Point, and very few young men who want the places.

THE BOOK OF ACCOMPLISHMENT.

When you've written your deeds on the ledger of life, And the styles shall fall from your hand, When your brief tasks are done and night shuts out the sun, And all that you've given must stand, Think you that in pride you shall pass up the screed And open it wide for the Master to read?

When the last line is cut on the stone of your years, And there's no new tomorrow to write, When you can't make amends for the hurt to your friends Or blot-out a blunder from sight, Do you think you'll be proud to step forward to show Your book of accomplishment written below?

Suppose that your book should be finished today, What most would the ledger disclose? Would the Great Master find enough deeds that were kind To balance the sham and the pose? God knows there are great deeds you're eager to write— But what if your record should end with tonight?

He shall know, as he looks on each pitiful smudge, Of our failures and blunders here; But still, as he reads the great sum of our deeds, The humblest of men need not fear, If the Master shall find, as he looks his life through, That he lived to his best and he tried to be true. —Copyright 1920 by Edgar A. Once there was a waiting list and it was considered an honor, but somehow since the war the regular officer has lost his high estate with the youth. We may also conclude that the reiteration of the wickedness of militarism has had a pronounced effect.

There has never been a president elected by a so-called third party. It might be well to remember that fact in making political prognostications. The only accomplishment has been the defeat of some candidate on one of the other tickets. The progressive party for instance.

Sugar

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Habana, Cuba, March 2.—Cuba has been made one of the wealthiest and certainly one of the most prosperous spots on the face of the earth during the last few years. Tobacco, prohibition, and fruit have contributed something to this prosperity, but the main cause of it is the tremendous rise in the price of sugar.

That acute shortage in sugar which has inconvenienced almost every individual in the United States and Europe has poured wealth into Cuba at an almost incredible rate. The world catastrophe of war has been to Cuba not only a blessing, but a veritable salvation. Just before the war broke out the Cubans were financially flat on their backs. Raw sugar was selling about two and a half or three cents a pound. It scarcely paid to grind it. A financial crisis threatened. Then came the war and the steadily upward trend of sugar prices.

U. S. Commanders Crops
The sugar crops of 1917-18 and 1918-19 were practically commandeered by the United States Sugar board. Theoretically the Cubans were free to sell their sugar wherever they pleased, but the United States government let it be known that it would regard it as a breach of faith if the Cuban sugar was sold to the United States. The advisability of performing this act of friendship was emphasized by the fact that the United States controlled the shipping, and the Cuban who wanted to sell his sugar somewhere else would have a hard time getting his ships. The Cuban sugar crop was taken by force to this country, but the Cubans did not object or complain because they were getting $4.00 a pound and ten pounds for their sugar, and that seemed at the time to be a good price.

Wanted to Sell Next Crop.
When the next crop—that is, the one now being ground—came into the market, a good many of the large Cuban producers thought it would be a good idea to sell it to the United States Sugar board again. In this they were not motivated by friendship for us or by fear of a shortage of ships, but by the fact that they thought if they could get $5.00 a hundred for the crop from the sugar board, they would be doing well.

Several of the big producers, owning about one-third of the Cuban crop, got together and wrote a letter to the sugar board offering to sell the crop at that price. The offer was not accepted, and the producers differed with these, and preferred to hold out for a higher price in an open market, but if the sugar board had accepted the offer, it could have secured at least half of the Cuban crop in all probability, and it could thereby have averted the sugar shortage and the high prices from which we are now suffering.

Didn't Buy Sugar
The sugar board refused to make the purchase, and the producers have been explained in a previous Haskin letter. It doubted its authority to do so and put the matter up to the president of the congress, who neither did anything, and our sugar was lost. The crop is now more than half sold, and is bringing as high as 12 cents a pound. If we went into the market now we could not get much Cuban sugar, even at that price. The failure of the sugar board to buy the sugar at six and a half while it had the chance was a blow to every sugar bowl in the United States.

For very soon after the Cuban producers made that offer sugar prices began to soar. American manufacturers of candy, cakes and other products that require sugar were the ones who boasted the price first. The sugar refiners in this country bought very little at that time because they believed that six and a half was a top-notch price and that it would come down. They made a bad guess. The manufacturers, on the other hand, did no guessing at all. They had to have sugar at any price in order to stay in business, and they bought all they could get, with the result that the prices steadily mounted until today they are at a level that would have staggered the Cuban imagination a decade ago.

Large Crop This Year
The present crop is estimated at about four and a half million tons by the U. S. government. It is not yet ready given evidence of interest in the bird house contest inaugurated by the Gazette on Monday.

The weather gives promise of spring and the return of the birds. It is none too early to put out the houses.

The two sets of prizes, one for the country and another for the city makes the competition doubly interesting.

Here are the prizes offered: Twenty dollars in cash. Ten dollars for the city and ten dollars for constant outside of the city.

First Prize $5
Second Prize 3
Third Prize 2

All bird houses in on March 15. They will be placed on exhibition and as soon as the judges can go over them the prizes will be awarded.

H. A. Hinely, an agent for American refiners, who has the reputation of guessing every year within one or two percent what the crop will be. This is nearly half a million more sugar than Cuba produced last year. Mr. Hinely admits that the crop may be reduced by labor and such which are the same. Cuban business just now. Except insofar as it is interrupted by strikes and revolutions, a steady increase in the Cuban sugar crop is expected. Stimulated by high prices, which promise to last for some time, Cuba will probably produce in the next few years 50 percent more sugar than it is now producing. It is doubtful whether the capacity of the island will make it possible for the increase ever to go as much beyond that.

Prosperity is Widespread
The prosperity which sugar has brought to the island is widespread and much in evidence. Every man who raised any sugar cane, from President Merocel who recently sold one of his great sugar estates for nine million dollars, to the little fellow operating on a few acres of rented land, has made more money than he ever dreamed of making. This prosperity has naturally extended to the merchants, and to almost all other classes of business. Trade, especially in luxuries, is very brisk. A local merchant bought cane for fifteen dollars a piece, and immediately placed them on sale at thirty-five dollars.

"You are a profiteer," the manufacturer told him.

"I give them what they want," he replied. "If I marked those cane $20, they wouldn't look at them."

A thriving business is also being done in automobiles, with which the Cuban is literally running over. Big touring cars painted in very bright colors and jitters elaborately upholstered in stamped leather are the favorite type.

Much building is also going forward, stimulated by very high rents. An especially prosperous class are the colonies or countrymen, who own sugar land but no mills. It should be explained that a large part of the sugar industry is controlled by the colonies, which are colonies of sugar land in addition. They also buy cane from the colonies, who are farmers solely. The colonies have not made much money. Most of the profit on sugar cane at a low price went to the mills which ground it. But now the colonies are getting tremendous prices for their cane, and he is not the type of a man to conceal his prosperity.

Countrymen Embrace from Timbers
These Cuban countrymen are emerging from the tall timber in crowds, building themselves houses in Vedado, the fine residence section, riding about in the latest cars, and buying leading their women with the jewels which the Cuban so loves. Never have the cafes been so bright with flowers and diamonds and the eyes of delighted señoras and señoritas. Never has the Prado presented such a charming spectacle of life and color as it does now every evening at the hour of the promenade.

Wages Not Rising So Far
Yet there are those who say that this prosperity is not destined to last. In the first place, the laboring man is not sharing it fairly, for here as everywhere else in the world wages have not risen as fast as the cost of living. There are strikes almost every day. And besides, the politicians are beginning again to fall out among themselves. They are two factions, every in each party, and they who know say that a revolution is brewing.

Prosperity has brought out the weaknesses of the Cuban as well as his strength. He knows how to enjoy his prosperity, but not how to hold it and organize it. He is a merchant who will use it to capture more of his elusive joy than he does, but in the business of life he is very apt to bungle.

NEW CITIZENS IN COURT WEDNESDAY

Because lawyers are busy now with the court cases, the court will take place all day Wednesday for applicants for citizenship. The court will be held in the courtroom of Judge George Grimm, who will be in court until next Monday. The shorthorn of the calendar with only 10 cases listed prevented the action.

In addressing the jurors, who were sworn in yesterday, Judge Grimm stated that it would be impossible to use them until Thursday, and rather than keep them in town he would postpone the trials a week and then press the cases rapidly.

Citizenship hearings will commence tomorrow at 9:30. They will be held at the county court house before a United States commissioner from Chicago.

UNIONS ADOPT NEAR EAST ORPHANS

Two more union organizations, the sheet metal workers and painters, each adopted Armenian orphans at their regular meetings last evening. John Gross, secretary of the painters, presented the Near East Relief situation at the meetings. He said today that he would speak before the other union organizations at a meeting of the labor council Sunday support of the drive by all unions was assured.

All lodges, organizations or clubs which have pledged the adoption of orphans are urged to send in their checks as every effort is being made to close the campaign. Mr. Gross said today that if more individual subscriptions are not received this week, the campaign in this city will fall down as Jansville has not adopted its quota of 100 orphans.

CAN FIND WORK FOR EVERYBODY ON ROCK CO. FARMS

Discussing the suspension of building at the Samson plant today, R. T. Glasco, county agent, gave out a statement that in the county of 1,000 men affected are desirous of procuring work and remaining in the vicinity of Jansville, they can find it on the farms of Rock county.

"I have 57 applications for farm hands on my desk now," said Mr. Glasco. "Thirty-two of them are for single men and 25 for married. Wages for single men run from $50 to $60 a month with board, and for married, $75 to $90 and in some cases higher."

Farmers are in a bad fix because of the shortage of labor, the county agent said. They are looking daily for men to aid them in getting help, many of them coming to the city to look into the labor market here because of the Samson situation applied at the county agent's office today for places on farms.

GUARD COMPANY HAS SOME STATE MONEY

Two hundred dollars have been advanced by the state to the local national guard company to take care of the rent for the armory for the ensuing year. This sum is in addition to the $500 already provided annually for rental purposes. Greatly pleased by the federal government and the state makes this possible.

Installation of new furniture for club fittings was made at the armory last night after the regular drill. A pool table is among the new equipment purchased for the use of the members.

With the enthusiasm now being shown it is expected that the guard will be recruited to sufficient strength to take federal muster on April 1. In that event, uniforms and ordnance equipment will be furnished by the war department which will put the company in first class shape by the 31st of May at the latest.

PROSECUTION HOLDS LAST DAY'S RECITAL IN NEWBERRY TRIAL

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 2.—The last day of prosecution testimony in the Newberry election conspiracy case began this morning with recital of grand jury testimony from the notes of H. Dale Souter, special assistant attorney general. He began with the testimony of Mel R. Deo, North Branch, and then read his notes on Louis L. Thompson, former probate judge at Allegan; William Greibass, L'Anse-au-Loup, ex-sheriff of Baraga county, and Samuel Odell, Lansing, a member of the state public utility commission and former state treasurer.

Odell was brought into the case on a report that Charles Floyd told William J. Mitchell that Odell gave James W. Helme assurance of financial aid if that man would run in the November primary against Henry Ford.

According to Mr. Souter's notes, Deo told the grand jury that in April 1918 Paul King and George Carrigan asked him to be county chairman for the Newberry campaign. King gave him $100 which he divided with Carrigan, using his share in circulating literature and cards. He received no other money and made no report of expenses.

The Greibass testimony, said Mr. Souter, was that Paul King came to L'Anse with Charles Floyd in May 1918. King asked him to use his influence for Newberry. John Brennan suggested:

"Hand us $1,000 and we will paint the town with Newberry literature."

King was said to have replied that it "would take a million dollars to satisfy everybody."

2.5 BEER TO BE TESTED FOR INTOXICATION

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Milwaukee, March 2.—The intoxicating qualities of 2.5 percent beer will be tested in Wisconsin today. The Geiger's decision, legalizing 2.5 beer in Wisconsin after termination of wartime prohibition, is upheld by the United States supreme court.

"Should the supreme court be inclined to uphold Judge Geiger, the first case involving sale of liquor containing 2.5 percent alcohol will be taken before the grand jury," said United States District Attorney H. A. Sawyer.

In the meantime Wisconsin brewers are ready at a few minutes' notice to manufacture beer containing 2.5 percent alcohol. This was the announcement today of W. W. H. Burns, president of the Wisconsin Brewers' association.

FOOD PROFITEERING TO COME BEFORE JURY

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Milwaukee, March 2.—Federal grand jury investigation of alleged food profiteering in Milwaukee and eastern Wisconsin was seen today as an outgrowth of the state food investigation under way by state officials, when the government issued subpoenas for several state officials interested in the quiz.

Alvin C. Kels, in charge of the state investigation, was the first man to be subpoenaed.

Government officials have steadily denied rumors and reports that profiteering and food hoarding were to be taken before the grand jury now.

TEACHING METHODS TOLD TO SCHOOL OF S. S. WORKERS

With an enrollment of more than 100 members, gratifying interest and attention, the school of methods and techniques yesterday began its four sessions in this city. Sunday school teachers, superintendents and others were among the pupils who were uniformly determined to secure the information possible from expert teachers in the several sessions.

Yesterday's program was mostly an overview to outlining general principles and planning for definite work in the future.

The normal course in charge by Mrs. C. B. Perry in charge began at 4 o'clock with a general survey of the field as planned for adult education.

Today she is to outline methods of teaching missions to young people; tomorrow that of adults; Thursday the juniors; and Friday, the seniors.

The work of beginners was outlined by Miss Bailey in the period from 5 to 6 o'clock and later, beginning at 7:30, she gave information about plans for interesting work. At the same hour in another class room, intermediate and advanced methods were explained by J. Rogers with practical hints on how to guard against, and points to put in the different ages.

At 8:10 three classes were taken with Rev. Perry Miller in charge. Adult Methods. He advocated securing a strong class or men as background of the Sunday school work.

Prof. J. J. Lewis, in a class of methodology, especially emphasized that one must teach the child a way to understand, and that the school exists for the sake of the child and not for the sake of the teacher.

The subject of Church School management was presented by J. Rogers, giving helpful points for those in charge.

The closing message for the day was given by Rev. Perry Miller in a thoughtful address on the Sunday school and the Bible. He emphasized the thought that the Bible must be treated as the inspired word of God, and brings the pupil to a close relationship with the life of Christ.

Bible Class Conference. County Adult Bible Class conference will be held at the Baptist church beginning at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with the state Sunday school workers, J. L. Rogers, Miss Mabel L. Bailey, in charge.

The morning session will continue at noon, and the afternoon session from 1:30 until 4 o'clock. It is especially urged that all adult classes be represented, and as far as possible attend this meeting.

Phosphorus Strike, Put Fear in Spanish Hearts

By Associated Press. Barcelona, Spain, March 2.—Sheep herders fear this city are greatly troubled by a strike of phosphorus, which is the main source of the phosphorus, is viewed as serious. Guards and local policemen have been called out to take the place of the strikers and men in uniform may be seen everywhere throughout the countryside guarding flocks and taking care of lambs.

SMART TRAMPING. OUTFIT OF YARN

By ELOISE. The tramp outfit will be seen by the outdoor girl who will want to look sensible, outfit for wear on outings in the country and outdoors. Here is a smart outfit which is not only sensible but it is active also. It is marked by its slacks of line. Patterned as it is brown knitted yarn it is suitable for such wear as the outdoor girl will give it, for such a suit to place in the business office at the afternoon tea or matinee.

A Rich Catch

SECOND RICHEST WOMAN IN GERMANY TO WED KAISER'S FORMER PRIME MINISTER

Frau Marie Anne von Friedlander-Puld and Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann.

LONDON.—Frau Marie Anne von Friedlander-Puld, who before the war was regarded as potentially the wealthiest woman in Germany next to Frau Bertha Krupp, is engaged to marry Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, formerly the Kaiser's foreign minister.

Frau von Friedlander-Puld is the only child of the late Privy Councillor Felix von Friedlander-Krupp, who was known as Germany's "Gold King" and was one of the millionaires on whom the Kaiser relied for substantial support. His fortune was estimated at $25,000,000 before the war, but it is hazardous to guess at its value now. His daughter is a handsome young woman of the Oriental type, an admirable equestrian and a linguist. She has much Jewish blood in her veins.

Discovered English husband. She married John Freeman-Mitford in January, 1914. When he made the greatest matrimonial "catch" in Germany he was a clerk in a Hamburg banking house. The match did not altogether please the Kaiser, who saw much money being transferred to England. Nevertheless the wedding was the social event of the season. Scarcely six months passed before the couple separated. It was said in England that Northumberland, Eng.—When her dog broke through the ice Mrs. Eleanore Mary O'Day, a widow, aged 30, tried to rescue him. She fell into the water and was drowned.

Decatur, Ala.—Mr. and Mrs. Poser Livingston of Albany, are the parents of six babies. Fifteen months ago a child was born. Now the doctor has paid a visit to the home and left three more babies.

SICK PRESIDENTS ARE A PROBLEM TO LAWMAKERS

Grave Question as to What Constitutes Disability or Inability.

Bills now pending in congress aim to supplement the clause of the constitution which provides that in the event of the disability, or "inability" of the president, the presidential duties shall be assumed by the vice president. The constitution fails to say what shall judge whether or not the president is able to perform his functions.

President Wilson's illness, of course, served to bring the question up. But the activity of congress concerning the matter "implies no disrespect to the President," says the Post-Intelligencer (Ind. Rep.), "for it is a part of the duty of congress to see that the president is able to perform his functions. It is a part of the duty of congress to see that the president is able to perform his functions."

The Minneapolis Journal (Ind. Rep.) supports the Post-Intelligencer's position that the fact of disability, as declared by the Supreme Court, after which a concurrent resolution of congress would authorize the president to act. The Journal admits that "to put such an amendment through would take time, but all other avenues of action seem to be effectively blocked." Leaving the determination to the supreme court is approved by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer (Ind. Rep.) for "if a part of congress should happen to control congress, it is in a position to see that the president is able to perform his functions. It is a part of the duty of congress to see that the president is able to perform his functions."

Price of Pennsylvania Oil Is Advanced Again

Pittsburgh, March 2.—Pennsylvania crude oil passed the six dollar mark here today when the Seep Purchasing Agency announced an advance in the price of 15 cents a barrel to $6.15. All other grades remain unchanged. This is the second advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude within two years of the 50th anniversary of the beginning of the year.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

We may expect some great things from the Albert Capellani picture company which recently joined the ranks of the great producing companies. The pictures made by this company will be distributed through the Such stars as June Caprice, Majorie Rameau, and Dolores Cassinelli will be featured by Mr. Capellani.

Capellani is an artist, if ever there was one, in the art of directing. His most recent works have achieved fame in this country and England through Nazimova. It was he who made "Revelation," "Toys and Fate," and "An Eye for an Eye" the wonderful artistic and finished productions which were his. He was directing which launched Nazimova so successfully on her first series of pictures after her first service appearance in a very mediocre production of "War Brides."

Mr. Capellani was born in Paris in 1874. He was one of the ploucs in the motion picture art in Paris. For years he was a director in the Pathe Paris studios. Then, after several more years spent in directing other features abroad he came to this country and directed for World. He was later connected with Seiznick Mutual and Metro.

Is it any wonder, then, that great things are to be expected from Mr. Capellani's forthcoming productions? Miss Cassinelli's next picture will be "The Web of Lies." June Caprice's next is "Little Mother Hubbard."

Pressure eased at mid-day as prices rallied 1 to 4 points, but the movement was extremely sluggish and restricted. Investment rails and utilities, including gas shares, were the only winners by far. Labor, popular industrials, other than gas and motors, and market drifted aimlessly in the later dealings, leaders fluctuating by only a single point. None of the morning's high was regained.

The close was irregular.
